But Torbert says these trips are largely perfunctory as the Palo cigar sells itself.

E. church, Seventh and Jefferson, have launched a campaign to raise $1,000 to clear the property of the present indebtedness. The new pastor, Rev. A. C. Caldwell, is determined that the obligation shall be lifted so that necessary improvements may be made on the buildings. The services of Rev. James A. Stout have been obtained to train local talent for a concert to be given at the High School auditorium November 16. Rev. Stout says that a rare treat is in store for lovers of music when the "Jubilee Singers" appear. Rev. Stout is a noted California concertist.

STEWART RETURNS TO TOWN—M. L. Stewart, state manager of the Woodmen of the World for Arizona and New Mexico, has returned to Phoenix after a four month tour of the two states in the interests of the organization he represents. Mr. Stewart was in Deming Wednesday night. He says the government cantonment there is a remarkable piece of work and that the organization of the various departments is being perfected with remarkable rapidity. While in Albuquerque Mr. Stewart saw the Arizona boys when they passed through the special train taking them to Camp Funston, Kansas. The state manager of the Woodmen says he is mighty glad to get back to Phoenix, on the way he expects to remain here during the fall and winter before he will again be called out on lodge work.

GUARD LIVESTOCK—In order to prevent a recurrence of the Kansas City stockyard fire, in which many hundred head of cattle were destroyed, letters are being sent out by E. W. Stephens, secretary of the state livestock sanitary commission, warning cattlemen to take exceeding precau-

ENTRIES FOR FAIR—Entries for the agricultural department of the state fair may be made up to November 10. All other departments close November 3. Exhibits of corn, milo, felteria and similar grains, either in the sheaf or threshed, may be left at the Chamber of Commerce where they will be entered and taken to the fair grounds and put on display without further trouble to the exhibitor. An exhibit of corn is 10 ears while that of the head grains is five heads. The exhibits of the horticultural department do not enter into competition with the exhibits of other counties.

ROOMS WANTED—The Chamber of Commerce has begun listing rooms for the many visitors that will be here during fair week. Many citizens of Phoenix have rooms which are available or could be made available for fair visitors. Owing to the large number of tourists that are here, the hotels are well filled and it is quite essential that people coming from other towns in the state be offered the homes of the city. Many rooms have already been listed and it is pleasing to note that the prices are very reasonable. Any citizens having rooms available for the use of fair visitors should call 1234 and make their rooms known.

AIRMAN WANTED—Airmen are wanted at once for the aviation section of the signal corps for which 30,000 are to be recruited as rapidly as possible. This information has come to the State Council of Defense from General George O. Squire, chief signal officer of the army. As this is a popular service with all ambitious young men who are subject to the draft, it is expected that the volunteers will be secured to the requisite number. It is desired, however, that only especially qualified men be taken, such as those who have had experience as electricians, makers, carpenters, cobblers, makers, automobile repairmen, chauffeurs, internal combustion engine experts, machinists, plumbers, painters and motorcycle repairmen. Application and enlistment should be made to the nearest recruiting officer.

GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL—You will come to Creighton Sunday school next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, won't you? Is the invitation which has been extended by those in charge, who wish all to aid in the celebration of "Go to Sunday School Sunday." The Sunday school boosters declare they will all be there and want everyone to help in reaching the two building mark Sunday morning next. Rev. William Cook, missionary from India, will address the Creighton people Sunday evening at 7:30. His address, it is said, will be most interesting.

CHURCH RALLY—The pastor, officers and members of the Lucy Phillips Chapel A. M. E. church, Seventh and Jefferson, have launched a campaign to raise $1,000 to clear the property of the present indebtedness. The new pastor, Rev. A. C. SECRET AGENT NOW IS INDISPENSABLE

(The Boston Globe)

On the inclusion of one item in the urgent deficiency bill may depend to a large degree the success of our military operations abroad. That item is the appropriation of $430,000 for the military intelligence section of the general staff.

The intelligence work of the army is the least known of all its manifold activities. Yet not even the glories and terrors of the great advance, the all destroying bombardments, the air battles through the shell pitted field, so awaken the imagination as the quiet, hidden work of the secret agent upon whose information the orders for that charge may have been based.

We call the aviator the eye of the army, and properly so, for his observation detects troop movements near the front, shows the formation of the enemy trenches and the forces occupying them, directs the fire of the artillery. So, too, we have the man in the listening post, lying quiet all night under the shells and the flares, his eyes straining for the slightest movement in the enemy trench, his ears open for the shreds and tatters of air borne talk.

Learn Enemy's Plans
These men, the aviator and the listener, are the army's scouts today, heirs of the daring cavaliers of history and romance. They are invaluable, and yet their work is only a part. The army must have other eyes and ears than they, not only on the battle front, but behind the enemy's lines, in that enemy's country, at his capital, his army bases, about his staff headquarters.

An advance warning of the enemy's plans, of the movement of troop trains, of the massing of the great guns for an attack, may be priceless. And to obtain such a word the commander must depend upon the secret agent, the spy, whether it be sent by cable over half the world or carried through the sunset of the battle lines.

The daring aviator may win renown for his accomplishments; valor in the field brings its sure and fitting rewards. But there is no glory, no public recognition for the spy. His best fortune is to be able to live and do his work. If detected, his fate is disavowal by his employers and hanging by his enemies.

Yet his work goes on because it must go on. Every army in every war has had its spies. Our Civil War, when North and South faced each other

French Get Information
If we know that Germany has her agents here and in England and France, so we can be sure that England and France have their agents behind the German lines. The army, the nation, which does not keep itself informed in every way of what its enemy does and plans is courting certain defeat.

The French government recently made public a detailed statement of the German forces opposed to it—how many divisions there were at that time, how many formerly, how severely they had suffered in dead, wounded and prisoners. The word accepted this statement as authentic; Germany has not attempted to deny its truth.

We Americans have proof enough of what the secret service can accomplish. The Zimmerman note had a determining influence in sending us into war. As German treachery in the Argentine is disclosed, South America is ablaze. Plots in our own land have been detected and the plotters caught. The very prestige of our intelligence departments has undoubtedly discouraged other plotters and saved us much serious trouble.

There are no army corps in the military intelligence section. The number of its agents is comparatively small, and its costs do not bulk great. But its thousands of dollars may save millions elsewhere, and numberless lives.

FAIR ENTRIES CLOSE NOV. 3
